Sunday Illustrated 1921

SCHOOL WIRELESS.

The remains of an old windmill make a fine aerial station. The boys take great interest in the work.

Mr. R. J. Hibberd, headmaster of the village school of Grayswood, near Haslemere, is a wireless enthusiast. He has fitted a complete wireless set in his school, and as messages are received they are written on the blackboard.